Lutherans To Ballot On Pastors' Pensions

Delegates to the fourth biennial convention of the American Lutheran church, to be held in Zion Lutheran church, Sandusky, Oct. 14 to 20, will be asked to consider and vote on a Pension Plan which has already been presented to the thirteen districts comprising the general body. At present a limited amount of support is provided for aged and needy pastors through the Board of Aids.

The American Lutheran church is one of the largest Lutheran bodies in the country, with a baptized membership of 545,000, and over two thousand congregations, located in most of the States and in five provinces of Canada. Eight colleges and seminaries and nine charitable institutions are operated by the church, while extensive mission fields are maintained in New Guinea and India.

The American Lutheran church belongs to a federation known as the American Lutheran conference, which together with the United Lutheran church and the Synodical conference, holds in membership practically all of the Lutherans in North America. Substantial progress has been made in the negotiations which have been going on for several years between the American Lutheran church, the United Lutheran church and the Synodical conference, looking toward a closer relationship between these bodies. Reports of this progress were given at the District Conventions and will be considered at Sandusky.

A resolution will be presented to the convention by the Trustees that meetings of the general body be held triennially or every three years instead of biennially.

Spiritual Worship

On Mount Sinai God gave the command against idolatry, "Thou shalt not make unto thee a graven image . . . Thou shalt not bow down thyself unto them, nor serve them."

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Exodus 20:4-6; 32:1-8; John 4:19-24.

While Moses was upon the mount the people fell into great sin, worshipping a calf they had made of their golden jewelry. As Moses saw this he threw down the tables of stone in his anger.

God told Moses of the people's sin, saying, "Thy people have corrupted themselves. They have made them a molten calf, and have worshipped it, and said, 'These are thy gods, O Israel.'"

To a Samaritan woman at a well Jesus defined God and how to worship him, saying, "God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship him in spirit."

(GOLDEN TEXT—John 4:24.)

John 4:24—"God is a Spirit; and they that worship him must worship in spirit and truth."

WHAT WILL RUSSIA DO?

RUSSIA, having been left out in the cold by her supposed allies, Britain and France, while they snuggle up to Germany and Italy, naturally resents it. The Moscow government organ, Izvestia, says:

"Official circles in Britain and France are trying to mask the real nature of the Munich deal with noisy rejoicing on account of their 'peaceful success.' There remains the obvious, prosaic fact that capitulation of the so-called democratic countries before an aggressor seemed to postpone war, but in fact makes it nearer and in conditions immeasurably worse for both Britain and France."

That is the way it looks to many Americans.

What of Russia herself? She must feel very lonesome, and not very safe, alongside of that strange, new merger of powerful democracies and dictatorships in western Europe. She is a great power, potentially if not actually, but even the greatest nation cannot stand alone against the world.

Russia, it must be remembered, sprawls across the two continents, Europe and Asia. On the eastern end she faces another potential foe, Japan, poor but energetic, and with boundless ambition. Japan is a member of the Fascist group. That fact must make Stalin and his people feel still more lonely.

Well, "what would a horse do?" While the powers are lining up in strange ways, and democrats linking arms with autocrats, why shouldn't Communists do likewise?

In spite of apparent hostility, it wouldn't be surprising now if Russia made a treaty of alliance and co-operation with Japan, divided China between them and laughed at Europe.

CARELESS WALKING

IT is startling to see headlines about a pedestrian hit by an auto and then arrested for causing an accident, but newspaper readers might as well get used to such stories. The custom is spreading. The widespread effort to make streets and highways as safe as possible requires checking every sort of traffic peril, including the inconsiderate, careless or intoxicated pedestrian.

In a recent case the man was in the hospital when arrested. He had not been critically injured, suffering only minor cuts and bruises. He had walked out into traffic, trying to dodge through a stream of cars which had the right of way. He got past the first car but was struck by the second. Through a combination of good luck and the watchfulness of the

A & P strikes out and warns that it will continue striking against the political foes of private enterprise. One day you will be called on to side with politicians or the men of business who provide us with jobs. No doubt about you hearing the politicians' side of the case—their propaganda will pour forth in a wide and steady stream. But information on the one side alone is not sufficient for intelligent decision on the matter. You should learn as much about both sides as possible.

In came the editor with a bulletin telling of a strike call at the Plymouth automobile works. First it was a strike in the automobile body plants that slowed down production of the new cars. Now it is in the auto plant itself. This at a time when everyone is expecting the automobile industry to boost us a little nearer normal conditions. It seems to the scrivener that in the last year or two that practically everyone has gone on strike except employers.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,
CHAMBERLAIN'S POLICY

WASHINGTON — In Arthur Neville Chamberlain, Prime Minister of Great Britain, there are strangely intertwined the characteristics of feminine sentimentality and masculine arch-conversation. This is the key to the policy he has followed during these hectic days when the world teetered on the brink of war.

When, with tears in his eyes, he stood on the floor of Parliament describing the horror which faced the women and children of the world if negotiations with Hitler failed, his mind must have gone back to the days of his own tragic youth.

Once before, speaking at Leeds as Minister of Health, Chamberlain had said: "One must remember what happens to the family when the mother is taken away, and there are young children left who never have the care and influence which a mother alone can exercise over them." Then he added in a lower voice, "My own mother died in childbirth."

The death of his mother left a profound mark upon Neville Chamberlain. He was 6 years old at the time, one of six children ranging from 16 to 2. A seventh child died a few hours after Chamberlain's mother and they were buried in the same coffin.

Neville was the oldest son of the second Mrs. Chamberlain, and his father, the famous Joseph Chamberlain of Queen Victoria's day, took still a third wife, this time an American girl, Miss Mary Endicott daughter of the Secretary of War in President Cleveland's Cabinet.

The engagement had to be kept secret for some months, as Cleveland was up for re-election and word that a daughter of one of his Cabinet was to marry the arch-enemy of Irish Home Rule was sure to have lost him the Irish-American vote.

During the engagement, Neville's father wrote a letter to his fiancée which gives an insight into the Chamberlain family life. "After dinner," he said, "I got down one of the farces I wrote a long time ago and read it to the family, who proved a most indulgent audience. Then Neville played to us a Lied of Mendelssohn's and a part of a Sonata by Beethoven."

CHAMBERLAIN'S FATHER

Old Joe Chamberlain was the first middle class Englishman to dominate Britain's ruling class. Descended from a family of brewers and ironmongers, he dictated Empire policy for more than a decade and when he died he bequeathed to British politics two reactionary sons.

Old Joe himself always was considered a radical. He proposed that England adopt a constitution similar to that of the United States and advocated a close understanding with this country.

motorists, the man was not worse hurt and no collision of cars occurred. Witnesses of the accident, including a policeman, agreed that the man on foot was wholly to blame.

The incident should be taken to heart as a lesson and warning by pedestrians generally.

Blood Tests Score High in Efficiency

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

BLOOD TESTS are made for various conditions. The blood is a highly complex sort of fluid, performs many functions and contains many kinds of bodies. Tests for these substances have attained a very high degree of efficiency, and diagnosis can be made with great certainty.

People speak with great certainty of the fact that their blood is acid and apparently are entirely unaware of the fact that the biochemist can tell exactly to a fraction how acid it is and what acids are present which causes the condition. The acidulous one would find in most instances that the blood was not acid at all. The blood is as nearly neutral as it is possible to be in this world, and it preserves its neutrality by many devious devices. If it should become very acid or very alkaline, a very serious condition follows.

For Immune Bodies

Other tests of the blood are for immune bodies, as for the immune bodies of typhoid fever by the Widal test, and the Wasserman test, of which so much has been made lately. These tests are very ingenious. The Widal test, for instance, depends on the fact that after typhoid bacilli have lived in the body for a while, the blood develops what are known as agglutinins. The typhoid bacillus is motile and, under the microscope in a drop of water, darts all around with great rapidity. The agglutinins slow them down and clump them together. The microscopists can add a drop of a suspected typhoid patient's blood to a water drop full of typhoid bacilli and draw conclusions from whether they continue to dance around or stop and huddle together.

The commonest test for the blood, however, is for the formed elements—the red and white blood cells—to determine their number and appearance. The number of cells of either kind is remarkably constant in health among different people. We say a man looks plethoric, but the number of his red cells is probably the same as his emaciated neighbor. The German physician who first counted red cells said that he himself had five million per cubic millimeter in spite of the fact that "I am pale and hungry looking."

The apparatus for counting blood cells is a masterpiece of delicate work. The cells are dropped in a chamber ruled off in fine lines that can be seen only under the microscope. And the distance between the "ceilings" (which is formed by a glass slide) is also exact. So that if the observer counts all the cells in a certain square he has an exact unit and can estimate the number of cells circulating all over the body.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

N. F.: "Some of my friends and I have been having some arguments lately about whether you need more salt in summer than in winter. Is it true that too much salt causes hardening of the arteries and Bright's disease?"

Answer: The cause of heat stroke is probably loss of salt through perspiration, and the prevention of the peculiar muscle spasms of men who work in very overheated places is to administer salt and water. So it would appear logical to eat more salt in summer. In my opinion the taking of salt has nothing to do with hardening of the arteries or Bright's disease.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

BET ON THE LONG SHOT

A RUBBER BRIDGE declarer is obliged sometimes to be like a race track plunger who stakes his all on a long shot, as his only chance to come out ahead on the day. Dropping a singleton king or queen can be right in that class, if the trumps are badly divided against him.

The bidding on this deal began by North calling 1-Heart, South 1-Spade, North 2-Hearts, South 2-Spades, North 2-No Trump, South 3-Spades and North 4-Spades.

When the heart J was led by West it was apparent to the declarer that he would possibly lose two diamonds and therefore would have to limit his trump losers to one to make his game.

Missing the K, 10, 9 and 8 of spades, South realized, after winning the first trick with the heart A, that if he finessed the J or K of trumps and the trick lost to the Q that one of the other outstanding trumps would be bound to win and his chances for game would fade.

He therefore decided to lay down the spade A and the drop of the singleton K assured him that East could claim only one trump trick. Next came the spade 2 to the J, followed by the two high hearts, East ruffing the latter. On this trick South discarded a diamond. East returned a diamond to West, who cashed the A and Q. Declarer lost exactly three tricks.

CHAPTER 37

BOB AND Marjorie had been gone for an hour when Ronald telephoned. The spring tone of the air had yielded to rain and great drops were falling rhythmically on the dormer windows. Judy was certain that it would be Ronald's voice that would say "Judy?" when she picked up the phone.

"I wanted to wait for you," he said, "but I had an engagement uptown. Some day maybe I can show you how grateful I was for your trust and hospitality tonight."

"You've shown me long before this how important faith is," Judy answered. "Was everything all right? Did your—visitor find his way up the mountainside to the fourth floor?"

Ronald hesitated. "He didn't come."

"Oh, I'm sorry."

"It doesn't matter. Maybe it's better."

Judy spoke quickly. "Ronald, isn't there any way that I can help? I'm not afraid, you know."

"Just keep on believing in me, won't you, Judy? That counts most." His voice was troubled.

"Ronald, your friends are with you en masse. You know that!" She emphasized her words to force them into his consciousness.

"If you are, I won't miss those who are dropping out," he answered.

He did not ask her to meet him for lunch. There was no suggestion of dinner. Alone in the quiet room, with the dead telephone in her hand, Judy felt a heart-sick pang because she had refused his invitation that day he was so tired. But she had been Abbey—Where was she now? How was she taking this?

Ronald's flowers came in the morning. There was a cool green box, and in the green misty paper within there were old-fashioned flowers—marigolds, jonquills, pinks, pansies, violets and yellow roses. There were enough for a low vase and two bowls.

Sorting them, before she drank her fruit juice and coffee, Judy remembered that Bob's flowers had stopped. She stood still, hands filled with blossoms, trying to remember when last that small red box had made his morning appearance. Until now she had not missed it.

You could let one man glide out of your life and never know his ship was speeding down the harbor until someone told you about it. Yet, if another man turned a corner—oh, any corner—and walked a block out of your path, you knew it and your heart trailed him feverishly.

What was love? Was it only chemistry, a divine chemistry, that made one person infinitely dear? The clock was striking 8:30 and she was due at 9, so she hurried. She found that Ronald later and thank him for the flowers.

But it was late afternoon when she did. Ronald was not in. He would call her, the secretary said. She asked Judy to wait a moment, and presently the warm tones of Mr. Heaton came flowing across the wire.

"Judy, your father is anxious to have an interview with you," he explained. "Could you make it at my office some time tomorrow?"

"Is it important?" Judy asked.

"Couldn't he write me?"

"Judy, you mustn't be too hard on him. He's had a great worry on his shoulders. He's done a monumental feat in making such a swift comeback. You have a father of whom to be proud."

A father who gave my governesses checks to buy me dolls that could walk and dolls that could talk; a father who sent me to the best schools and camps but never once took me hiking because he liked being with me; no, that wasn't quite fair. Before Sarita had come along, when she was only six and seven, he had taken her fishing and told her stories.

After that he had changed. Oh, a woman could not have dealt to a man, especially a man who was not strong enough to follow the way he chartered when his eyes were wide and his path clear!

She might have weakened but Mr. Heaton was saying:

"People are talking, Judy. They wonder why you have broken your relations with your parents. Your father is deeply hurt. Sarita is being censured, and that pains your father greatly."

Not, am I lonely? Am I hurt? Sarita is being censured. The moment was gone. Mr. Heaton had lost his cause with his own last argument. Judy smiled a little. Not a happy smile. Not a young smile. An old tragic, cynical lifting of the lips. Mr. Heaton was a lawyer. He should have known better than to overplead his case.

"Won't you tell my father that I'm well and happy and fairly successful? I appreciate his interest—but I mustn't trouble him."

She hung up.

Judy had been able to obtain a job for Coralee Myers in the fitting department. Coralee, deeply grateful, gave her as Judy sat at the desk.

"Miss Rogers, are you ill?" she asked quickly.

"No, I'm fine. I was just thinking how nice it must be to have a family." She smiled wanly.

Coralee hesitated. "You've always said you wanted to meet mine. Would you come out some night for dinner?"

"I'd love to. How soon?"

"Tomorrow night?"

"I'll be waiting for it to be tomorrow."

Coralee hesitated. "Our house is poor, you know. My father has a queer kind of job. He can do it at home while his leg heals. He's a penman. I mean he does fancy writing for diplomas and things for some company." She was apologetic and proud both.

"That's splendid," Judy said gently. "Men who couldn't make an intelligible scrawl, but who had gone through a process of training to achieve that scrawl, wrote their names on limitless checks. Coralee's father could cross his t's and round his o's and had no papers of his own on which to put the perfect copy."

In a burst of sympathy for Coralee Judy went shopping when she left the studio. She knew how many small children there were in that New Jersey household.

She bought a yellow sweater, two turtlenecks of beads, some dolls and an electric train and a box of candy. She asked to have the packages delivered to the studio the next day as she could go directly home from work with Coralee. But on the subway she remembered that the poor are proud.

The Myers family was offering its hospitality, graciously and happily. If she came with her arms filled with largesse which could not be repaid with a pork chop and a baked potato, they would be hurt.

There was no way to explain to them that they were giving her more than she brought them. That they let her share a home, that they taught her that families did live together. She would take the candy to them, and cancel the rest of the offer.

Some friends had invited Judy to join them at the theater that evening, and she was nearly ready when her doorbell rang.

Thinking that the people were early, she went to the button which released the door. The bell rang again. Apparently the latch had not released. She pressed hard, and went into the hall to look down but behind her came the insistent ringing.

Oh, of course! She was stupid. They were waiting for her to talk through the speaking tube, something they seldom did. She said: "Yes."

A strange masculine voice answered: "Is Ronald Birrell there?"

Before she could answer, the voice came more quickly: "Is this Abbey Boland?"

A member of the United States senate or house of representatives may resign by transmitting a letter of resignation either directly to the executive of his state or to the presiding officer of the house of congress of which he is a member. In the house the usual practice is to transmit the letter of resignation directly to the governor, at the same time notifying the speaker of the house of the action. When a member resigns directly to the senate or to the house of representatives, the body to which the resigning member belongs orders its presiding officer to inform the governor of the state of the resignation.

Watt Home Scene Of Garden Club Meeting

Reservations to Kingston Meet Being Sought

Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Watt extended the hospitality of their home Friday evening, to members of the Pickaway County Garden Club for their October meeting.

Mrs. Clark Hunsicker, newly elected president of the club, presided at the business session.

The roll call and minutes of the previous session were read by Mrs. G. G. Campbell, secretary, followed by the report of Mrs. Watt, club treasurer.

Mrs. Hunsicker read an invitation which had been extended the club to attend the regional meeting to be held in Kingston, Oct. 13. Reservations should be made not later than Oct. 10. The club has been invited also to participate in a Hocking county tour of state parks, which will be held, Oct. 14.

Mrs. Leslie Pontius, chairman of the exchange committee, announced that there would be an exchange of bulbs at the home of Miss Florence Dunton, the date to be announced later.

The club voted to donate $5 to the city health nurse to be applied to the fund for purchasing scales for the various city schools.

Mrs. Blair, delegate to the state convention held recently in Zanesville, reported that there are 250 garden clubs in Ohio with a membership of 8,000 and stated that the number of persons interested in gardens was increasing yearly.

She gave an interesting account of an address given by Lee Schmitz of Washington D. C. on outdoor life. He told of the primitive gardeners frequently having only a geranium and how they cherished and prized it. He spoke of insects and birds and told of their effect on vegetation, wild and otherwise. The first step in wildlife conservation was taken by the Indians, the government giving its first support along conservation lines under Theodore Roosevelt.

Mrs. Blair next gave a detailed and colorful description of the address by Mrs. Ico Greagar, a Bohemian, who has devoted her life to the study of flower arrangements, having spent many years in Japan.

Mrs. Richard Jones, an alternate who also attended the convention, gave a resume of activities and reported that one of the most outstanding floral displays at the convention was that of tuberous rooted begonias grown by Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Noggle of W. Union street.

Mrs. Orin King, chairman of the program committee, assisted by Mrs. Blair, obtained for the evening's program Mrs. Howard Hamlin of Upper Arlington, who judged the flower display at the Pumpkin Show last year.

Mrs. Hamlin spoke on "Flower Arrangements and Arrangements of Berries and Foliage." She told of the early pagans offering flowers to their gods, and trying to enhance their beauty in arranging them. The same thing occurred with the orientals, flower arrangements having taken on such importance the last few years that artists are often called on to act as judges instead of florists. She gave rules on lines, color arrangements and ideas on proper receptacles for flowers. Mrs. Hamlin made several arrangements, with berries, foliage and a miniature.

At the close of the program, the members were invited to the dining room where delectable refreshments were served. Mrs. Howard Jones presided at the tea table.

The dining room and living rooms were artistically decorated in Autumn flowers, bittersweet and dogwood foliage. Mrs. Fred Cook displayed a gorgeous basket of various colors and kinds of dahlias.

Mrs. Watt was assisted by Mrs. George Roth, Mrs. C. E. Hunter and Miss Florence Dunton.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. G. I. Nickerson, S. Court street.

Mrs. Charles Pugsley and Mrs. John Bolender were admitted as members.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs.

Eula Dowden Is Bride Of Ray O'Neal

Friday afternoon, Oct. 7, Miss Eula M. Dowden, daughter of Mr. Mack W. Dowden, became the bride of Mr. Ray O'Neal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Colman O'Neal of Hardinsburg, Ind. The ceremony was performed at 4:30 in the afternoon at the Dowden home in Wayne township.

The fireplace, before which the vows were exchanged, was banked with large bouquets of Chinese woolflowers and lighted with tall cathedral candles.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Elizabeth Umsted of Kingston, played piano arrangements of "Because" and "O, Promise Me". As she modulated to the strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March, Miss Dowden and Mr. O'Neal stepped from the receiving line to the improvised altar. The single ring service was read by the Rev. Harry E. Boyer of Hope Lutheran church, Columbus. During the ceremony, Miss Umsted played softly, "I Love You Truly" and Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

For her wedding, the bride chose a Mainbocher adaptation of mist blue leana crepe with chianti accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

Following the service, a reception was held for the guests. The bride's table was beautifully decorated with a large three tiered wedding cake, encircled with a garland of white button chrysanthemums, flanked with tall white tapers. The embroidered tablecloth used was that of the bride's maternal grandmother. Gladioli, pompons and zinnias were used in profusion in other rooms of the home.

ATHLETES WANT GAME OCTOBER 19

"School officials are making an effort to secure an opponent for a football game Wednesday, October 19, the first day of Pumpkin Show," was the statement issued Friday by Virgil M. Cress, faculty manager of athletics.

In the meantime the squad has been practicing daily with a new charging sled blocking and tackling dummy. Advanced manual training pupils turned out the sled; the squad made the dummy. Coach Roy Black reports that there has been steady improvement in tackling and blocking since the addition of these two devices.

Marvin Jenkins and John Noggle, injured in the game with Worthington, will be ready to play when the Tigers meet Frankfort next Friday evening on the Circleville field under the lights.

The squad will be minus Frank Woodward, former left halfback, who has withdrawn from Circleville high school.

TRI-COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICT PLANS BLASTED BY HOCKING BOARDS

STATE PROGRAM TO ALTER AREA GIVEN SETBACK

Laurelville - Perry Division Wishes To Remain In Present System

Hocking county boards of education, meeting Friday night in Logan, turned thumbs down on the proposed creation of a tri-county school district from parts of Pickaway, Ross and Hocking counties. They opposed any redistricting of the county system. Dr. C. T. Grattidge, Laurelville, president of the Laurelville-Perry board of education, the district involved in the proposed tri-county merger, announced that territory wishes to stay in the Hocking county system. School officials opposed also a suggestion considered in recent weeks for the establishment of a county-wide school unit in Hocking county. The districts preferred to continue as separate units. Creation of the proposed three-county district included the erection of a new school at Routes 56 and 180. Petitions were circulated in the districts of Ross and Hocking counties but no action has been taken on them by the county boards of education. Salt Creek township, Pickaway county, would have been a part of the district. About 40 school officials attended the meeting in Logan. It was a public hearing, called for a discussion of school reorganization.

U. A. W. CONFERS ABOUT STRIKE AT PLYMOUTH

DETROIT, Oct. 8.—(UP)—The United Automobile workers union held a hurried conference today on its 32-hour week plan, which caused a walkout from the Chrysler corporation's Plymouth plant that withdrew 16,000 men from work yesterday. Nine international officials of the union came here by airplane from Washington, where the executive board formally approved the 32-hour week last Wednesday, to meet with local U. A. W. leaders who had followed up the board's proposal with quick and direct action.

International officials made no comment immediately on whether their headquarters had approved the walkout of 6,800 Plymouth workers, whose sole demand was a 32-hour week and who denied that they were on strike but said they were quitting because they had worked 32 hours this week. It was reported that the men planned to return to work Monday regardless of today's conference, but that they probably would quit again after working 32 hours next week.

The Plymouth shutdown caused the Briggs Manufacturing company to close, lacking an outlet for its bodies, and threw 9,000 additional men out of work.

GABBY JUGGLES TEAM TO SEEK SERIES VICTORY

Demaree On Bench As Cubs Face Yankees In Third Tilt

(Continued from Page One) snizzles for a week and Manager Joe McCarthy said he would not start the man who pitched a no-hit game this season unless he was in tip-top shape. Should Pearson be unable to work, McCarthy probably will take a chance with another cripple—Spud Chandler, alumnus of the Newark Bears. He would be quite a guy in the baseball world if the Yankees didn't have so many other good pitchers to throw in ahead of him. He has been having arm trouble for three weeks. Gabby Hopeful Hartnett's chances are thin, but his hopes are as wide as his grin. He got a haircut yesterday (one was suggested he might as well have waited for the trimming he's going to get this afternoon) and as he sat in the barber chair, a fat cigar in his teeth, he pointed out the irrefutable fact that it takes four games to win a World Series. "We'll take 'em, we'll take 'em," Gabby chanted as though he were trying to hypnotize himself. "They were lucky in Chicago." Win or lose, Gabby will put on a show for the New York fans today. He really has no business being in the ball game, for two fingers on his throwing hand are badly chewed up by foul tips. There were times during those first two games in Chicago when eight of the Cubs on the field seemed to be a listless, heartless crew. But there never was a time when Gabby, the man in the iron mask, wasn't shaking his fist at the Yankees in defiance—a fist that was white with adhesive tape—and calling on the Cubs for a rally. Should Bryant lose today, Hartnett would be faced with a decision that should add a garden patch of gray to his hair. He would have to decide whether to send Big Bill Lee, who got knocked around in the first game, back in there or blow some kind of a weird whistle and summon Grandpappy Charley Root, 39, oldest player in the big leagues, from out his glorious past. Technically, Lee is Hartnett's best pitcher and he didn't disgrace himself in Chicago Wednesday. He deserves another shot.

Ruffing to Be Better

No matter what happens today Rufus the Red Ruffing is rested and ready to go tomorrow for New York. He didn't pitch the best game of his career in the opener, but he was good enough to throttle the Cubs when they tried to get dangerous and the law of averages says he will be better on his next start. Just to show that figures don't mean much unless you put them inside a bathing suit, the composite box score for the first two games indicates that the best team lost. The Cubs out-hit and out-fielded the Yankees. Hartnett's men slammed McCarthy's pitchers for the respectable batting average of .303. The Yankees were able to hit only .279. The Yankees have committed three errors for a fielding average of .963; the Cubs have made only one error for an average of .987. Maybe Commis-

CATHOLIC, NAZI ENTHUSIASTS IN AUSTRIAN RIOT

VIENNA, Oct. 8.—(UP)—An angry demonstration in which Roman Catholic youths and Nazi partisans fought in historic St. Stefan's place last night was ended by police when it threatened to assume the proportions of a riot.

Several persons were injured and several were arrested in free for all fights which marked a climax to growing differences between the Catholic church and the Nazi government. Cardinal Innitzer, archbishop of Vienna and head of the Catholic hierarchy in Austria, was delivering in old St. Stefan's cathedral the strongest sermon he had ever made against government interference with the church.

Outside, in the great square, were massed thousands of Catholics who could not get into the cathedral, which was jammed to the doors. Nazi partisans began heckling persons in the crowd.

The service ended with the cardinal retired to his home just as fights began to break out in the square. The screams of women began to punctuate the din of shouts and counter shouts and the songs from groups in the crowd.

Priests came from the cathedral, centering their efforts, restored order among groups of Catholic youths who were organizing to wreck face terraces in the square.

The Nazi representation increased steadily, and more fights broke out. Police arrived on the run as the fighting threatened to become serious.

FRENCH DRAFT PLAN FOR GREAT OCEAN STEAMER

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(UP)—The French line plans to build a gigantic new luxury liner, larger than the Normandie and designed to cross the Atlantic in less than four days, it was announced today by Henri Morin De Linclays, general representative of the line. The plans call for an expenditure of $60,000,000. The ship will take three years to build.

De Linclays said the new ship would have a speed of between 34 and 36 knots, he said. It would have accommodations for 500 to 600 third class, 600 tourist class and 700 to 750 cabin class passengers. Its motors would generate 250,000 horsepower.

By contrast, the Normandie cost $56,000,000; has 160,000 horsepower, an accommodations for 300 third class, 400 tourist and 650 cabin class passengers.

AUTO, TAXI COLLIDE

Auto driven by William Holmes, E. Mill street, and a taxi operated by Herman Sirbaugh, 519 E. Main street, were involved in a minor traffic accident Saturday about 10 a. m., at Washington and Franklin streets. Damage to the cars was slight.

sioner Landis should do something about this business of a team out-hitting and outfielding the Yankees and still losing two ball games. Something like standing between second and third base when the Cubs are on the field, and untangling Jorges and Hack when they get the idea—as they did in Chicago Thursday—that they are playing football and try to block each other out of the play.

"FOE HAS POLITICS, BASEBALL MIXED," TELLING CIRCLEVILLE AUDIENCE

Republican party in Ohio," Mr. Sawyer said, "is not a party but one man, operated by one man and for the benefit of one man. That person is not my opponent, but Ed Schorr, who as chairman of state executive and central committees does what he wishes in Republican politics. He holds secret meetings and doesn't consult anyone about any course that the party should follow. Any person elected by Republicans of Ohio will not serve the rank and file of the people as I expect to do, but will be in the state house for the personal benefit of Ed Schorr."

Efficiency Promised

The speaker went on to pledge efficiency in every branch of the state government. He advocates an accounting system to better handle the financing of the state; intends to remove appointment of the state conservation commissioner from the governor's hands and place it in the power of the conservation council; to reorganize the highway department into a more efficient unit.

Mr. Sawyer praised President Roosevelt for his action in sending a message to European powers urging that differences over the Czechoslovakian question be settled in peaceful conferences and not in war.

All primary election conflicts were declared forgotten by the candidate. "I had a hard-fought campaign for nomination, as many of you are well aware," he said, "but all those troubles have been forgotten. The primary was over the day after the primary. There are no bruises left and I have forgiven all my enemies so far as the primary is concerned."

In his Portsmouth address, which was broadcast to a state-wide audience, Mr. Sawyer charged his opponent with attempting to destroy the effectiveness of the bipartisan civil service commission by increasing the two-man commission to three and thus "plunging the commission into the worst kinds of spoils system by giving it a two-to-one partisan bias."

He appeared in Ironton and Senator Robert Bulkley, scheduled to speak at the Circleville meeting, wired Lawrence Goeller, executive committee chairman, that he would be unable to attend because of conflicting dates.

Many Introduced

Other persons introduced during the evening by Mr. Goeller were John W. McSweeney, candidate for re-election as congressman-at-large; Francis Howard, candidate for reelection as state senator; Harold K. Claypool, candidate for reelection as congressman; Clark Hunsicker, running for reelection as representative; Wayne Brown, candidate for com-

date for auditor; John Goeller, missionary; Miller Beckett, candidate for council; Charles Miller, Democratic club chairman; Dr. E. L. Montgomery, chairman of the Young Democratic club; Judge Robert Gorman, of Cincinnati, candidate for reelection to the state supreme court, who urged consideration for the judicial ticket; Mrs. Hulse Hays, district committeewoman; Ralph Winegardner, candidate for supreme court judge, and representatives of Senator George Morris, Auditor Joe Ferguson and Attorney General Herbert Duffy. Others presented were officials of the Sawyer-for-Governor club, including Bryan Custer, Byron Eby, Joe W. Adkins, Jr., and Karl Herrmann.

Mr. Goeller presented Mr. Sawyer as "a fearless leader who will carry the Democratic party to victory on Nov. 8."

Music during the evening was provided by the Franklin county Democratic glee club of 25 male voices.

ITALY REMOVES VETERANS FROM SPANISH WAR

ROME, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Italy is withdrawing all its Spanish civil war troops who have served in Spain more than 18 consecutive months, was announced today.

How many men would be affected, or how many actually were in Spain with the Nationalist army, was not disclosed.

An official communique announcing the withdrawal was issued as from Salamanca, Spain. It said:

Gen. Francisco Franco is preparing for the immediate repatriation of Italian volunteers who have been in Spain more than 18 consecutive months.

"Nationalist Spain through this substantial withdrawal of volunteers is contributing in an efficient manner to the establishment of international faith, besides satisfying in this way the desires expressed by the non-intervention committee."

Some quarters reported that the withdrawal would include about 10,000 men and it was added, in those quarters, that there were probably about 30,000 Italian troops in Spain.

EMPLOYEE OF MINT FIRST IN LINE AT YANK FIRST

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(UP)—John Green, 62-year-old Negro who claims to work in the United States mint, was first in line when the sale of bleacher seats for the third World Series game opened today.

Green, with a two-pound bell he will toll every time the Yankees get a hit, took up his vigil in front of the ticket window at 1 p. m. yesterday and he had no company until late last night.

"I ain't missed a World Series game since 1928," said Green.

LAND DEMANDS OF TWO NATIONS MENACE PEACE

This was a commitment taken for the first time by Britain. Previously the government had promised only to support France if France went to the aid of Czechoslovakia against a German attack.

When the Munich agreement was signed, and the delegates of Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy alike saw a rainbow of peace in the diplomatic skies of Europe, this pledge seemed but a polite gesture to Czechoslovakia—one that would cost nothing.

But now, it was understood the government feared that what was called a "difficult situation" might arise if Poland and Hungary threatened to use forcible means to get their demands for cession of Czechoslovak Ruthenia or part of Slovakia so that they could have the common frontier they have been talking about.

Thus, conceivably, the situation might develop in such a way that Berlin and France would have to validate their pledge to protect Czechoslovakia's frontier, or alternately, suffer the embarrassment of finding an exit.

On Thursday night Poland decided to support Hungary's claim for cession of the whole province of sub-Carpathian Ruthenia to Hungary. It was understood that Hungary, in negotiations with Czechoslovakia starting tomorrow night, was likely to claim Ruthenia on the ground that it was part of Hungary before the World War, though the inhabitants are largely Ukrainians.

Sources close to the British government asserted that there was not the slightest doubt that the real reason for the new Polish-Hungarian claims was a desire to create a common boundary between the two countries.

This would bring nearer to realization Poland's dream of a powerful neutral belt of nations, serving as a buffer between Russia and Germany—and, extending from the Baltic sea to the Adriatic sea—to make a German-Russian war almost impossible.

"FOE HAS POLITICS, BASEBALL MIXED," DEMOCRATIC NOMINEE TELLS CIRCLEVILLE AUDIENCE

Ohio to Become Model for Others; Cooperation With Legislature, Study of Problems Promised

Pickaway county Democrats, 1,000 strong, crowded into Memorial Hall Friday night to hear Charles Sawyer, nominee for governor, close a two-day tour of Southeastern Ohio. He attacked his opponent's charge that he is in sympathy with subversive elements, and assailed the Republican party of Ohio as being operated by one man and for one man, naming Ed Schorr, of Cincinnati, Sawyer's home city, as that man. Mr. Sawyer reiterated his pledge that employees of the state need not fear loss of their jobs if he is elected, declared that he is interested in old age pensioners receiving their checks when they are due, and that under him Ohio's government will be made a model for other states of the Union.

Numerous other candidates were on the platform, and several of them offered brief remarks, but the crowd gathered to hear Mr. Sawyer, and hear him it did.

JUDGE ALLOWS PAYMENT FOR LEGION'S TRIP

COLUMBUS, Oct. 8 — (UP) — The state emergency board's appropriation of $15,000 in public funds to send three Ohio American Legion band units to the legion convention in Los Angeles was justified today by a decision of Judge Charles Leach on file in Common Pleas court.

Judge Leach ruled that the legion "can be considered an institution which receives support from the state." Counsel for the legion had argued this point in the affirmative during court hearings.

The decision was a setback for Arnett Harbage, West Jefferson farmer, who sought an injunction restraining payment after the money was voted by the board and the warrant cashed by a bank. His suit was to restrain the state treasurer from redeeming the warrant.

Film Players Solve World Series Problem

WALLACE BEERY, FLORENCE RICE, W. S. VAN DYKE AND ROBERT TAYLOR

IMAGINE the chagrin of film players Wallace Beery, Florence Rice and Robert Taylor and Director W. S. Van Dyke when they turned on their radio for the world series on the Hollywood set and discovered they had no aerial and reception was bad. But the problem was quickly solved by Miss Rice. She suggested that the steel hoops in her 1850 hoop skirt would make a good aerial. Miss Rice was hooked to the radio and reception was perfect. The players appear in a new picture.

REVOLT IN SIAM AGAINST YOUNG KING REPORTED

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlements, Oct. 8 — (UP) — Reports of an abortive revolt in Siam, intended to dethrone boy King Ananda Mahidol and enthrone former King Prajadhipok, his uncle, in his place, reached Singapore today.

It was asserted that a number of prominent men had been arrested.

One cabinet minister was reported to have fled to Penang, Straits Settlements.

It was learned here that numerous Siamese in the Malay peninsula had been awaiting a coup.

King Ananda Mahidol, who was 13 years old September 20, is at school in Switzerland—as he was when he was named to succeed his uncle, who renounced the throne March 2, 1935.

Former King Prajadhipok is in England, at his country estate near Richmond, outside of London. He now assumes the title of Prince of Sukhodaya.

King Ananda Mahidol was living in Switzerland, as a school boy when he was named to succeed his uncle.

Prajadhipok never seemed to care greatly for the throne.

BRYANT ESTATE SUED BY MAN HURT IN CRASH

Leslie W. Hughes, 1171 Whittier street, Columbus, asks $15,000 damages in a suit filed Saturday in Common Pleas court against Esther B. O'Brien, administratrix of the estate of J. Chase Bryant, Kennedy Heights, Cincinnati.

The suit is based on an auto collision last June 10 at Routes 22 and 104, West of Circleville. Hughes was passenger in an auto driven by Edward Lowery, traveling North on Route 104. The auto operated by Bryant was going west on Route 22. Bryant was fatally injured in the collision.

Hughes charges Bryant was negligence in failing to give a warning or signal before entering the intersection, was operating at a speed in excess of 60 miles an hour and failed to check his speed before entering the intersection.

Mr. Sawyer was emphatic in his attack on Ed Schorr, whom he charged with being Ohio's "one-man Republican party". The

GABBY JUGGLES TEAM TO SEEK SERIES VICTORY

Demaree On Bench As Cubs Face Yankees In Third Tilt

CLAY BRYANT ON HILL

Hartnett Refuses To Give Up Despite Losses On Home Lot

By Harry Ferguson
NEW YORK, Oct. 8 — (UP) — Like a nervous card player gambling it all on the flip of one card, Manager Gabby Hartnett of the Chicago Cubs shuffled his line-up today hoping to draw a winning hand against the New York Yankees in the third game of the World Series.

He knows and you know that the deck is stacked dead against his winning this series, for the Yankees are back in their own yard today where they know every board in the fences, every blade in the grassy outfield and every shadow that crawls when day is done. They are back in their own yard riding the crest of two straight World Series victories on the alien soil of Wrigley field, a cocky, confident crew that is now talking of taking four straight and ending the series tomorrow.

So the time has come for Gabby to take steps and this is what he plans to do: Frank Demaree, the outfielder who is hitting a puny .143, goes to the bench and Cavarretta, Reynolds and Marty will range the outfield for Chicago.

Revenge for Bryant?

Then he will call on a raw youngster, who never had the roar of a World Series crowd beat against his ears, to carry the pitching burden—Clay Bryant, resident of Zanesville, O., and a young man who throws a fast curve which breaks like the vase your mother-in-law knocked off the table. This may turn out to be a day of sweet revenge for young Mr. Bryant because when he was only 19 years old he was signed on as a Yankee farm hand then cut adrift because the powers didn't think he had the stuff.

Nothing would tickle the battery of Bryant and Hartnett more than to drape a large horse collar around the necks of the Yankees before the 70,000 persons gathered at the stadium this afternoon.

It seems fairly certain that Monte Pearson goes for the Yankees today unless the bugs in his sinuses start cutting capers. He has been having the sneezes and

Charles Heller Dies After Columbus Mishap; Former Local Man Exonerated

A Columbus resident was injured fatally Friday night on S. High street when he was struck by an automobile driven by Oscar Miller, 3045 S. High street, former Circleville resident.

The traffic victim was Charles Heller, 38, of 1615 Parsons avenue. He suffered a fractured skull and compound fracture of the left leg. Mr. Heller was dead on arrival at Mercy hospital.

Officers who investigated the accident said Mr. Heller and a companion alighted from an auto and started to cross the street. It is believed Mr. Heller became confused and did not hear his companion's shout to "watch out."

Mr. Miller was exonerated of blame.

GERMAN SAILING SHIP WRECKAGE FOUND IN OCEAN

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 8 — (UP) — Wreckage believed to be the German four masted sailing ship Admiral Karpfanger, missing since last March with its crew of 80, has been found off the lonely island of Navarin, off the tip of Tierra Del Fuego at the southern end of the South American continent, it was established today. There was no mention of the crew.

The ship, formerly the cadet training ship L'Avenir of the Hamburg America line, left Port Germein, in South Australia, last February with a cargo of wheat for England. It was reported off the New Zealand coast March 1. After that nothing was heard of it until yesterday when the ministry of marine here received a telegram saying that a wrecked ship, found off the southern tip of the continent, was believed to be the Admiral Karpfanger.

The commander of the Chilean naval base at Punta Arenas telegraphed today confirming that the wreck had been found in Windfon bay, on the southern coast of Navarin island and was believed to be the missing ship. White-painted doors and planks substantiated the belief, the commander wired.

The Admiral Karpfanger, a steel bark of 2,853 tons, was built at Bremerhaven, Germany, in 1908. Its home port was Hamburg.

London Warns Hungarians, Polish Against Seeking More Territory

NEW BORDERS INVIOLEATE

Common Frontier To Halt Any German-Russian Warfare Sought

LONDON, Oct. 8 — (UP) — Great Britain fears the possibility of a new, grave European crisis as the result of Polish and Hungarian demands for a portion of Czechoslovak territory calculated to give them a common frontier, it was learned today.

Britain has warned both Poland and Hungary against seeking to dismember Czechoslovakia for political and strategic reasons — the reasons, in the British belief, for the demands.

Reliable quarters said that Poland, in reply to this warning has intimated to the government that it was determined to give the fullest possible support to Hungary's claim for immediate cession of Czechoslovak Ruthenia. Such a cession would give Poland and Hungary a common frontier, cut Czechoslovakia off from her Little Entente ally, Roumania, and form a strong barrier between Germany and Russia.

It was understood that the Polish intimation was sent to London after a Polish-Hungarian conference at Warsaw Thursday. At this conference, it was reported, the Polish and Hungarian representatives decided to press immediately for cession of sufficient Czechoslovak territory to join their frontiers.

Italy's Support Hinted

To make the threat of trouble more serious, it was reported in reliable diplomatic quarters here that Italy probably would support Poland and Hungary in their demands, despite indications that Germany was opposed to them.

The reason for the government's new anxiety over Czechoslovakia, after its agreement to the country's dismemberment in the interests of Nazi Germany, was that as part of the Munich agreement,

GRANGE CHORUS ENTERS CONTEST AT LAURELVILLE

Choruses made up of members of the Pickaway county and Hocking county grangers will take part in a competitive concert Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock, in the community hall at Laurelville. These concerts are part of the Winter program of the state grange to create more interest in music for grangers.

Four counties, Pickaway, Hocking, Ross and Vinton, were included in this district, the last two not entering the contest. The winner in the concert will go to the regional contest. A state contest will then be held and the most efficient chorus will sing at Farmers' week, Columbus, in February.

About 30 members are included in the Pickaway county chorus which has been rehearsing for several weeks under the direction of Mrs. James Moffitt.

The concert at Laurelville is open to any person interested in grange work.

The last rehearsal of the Pickaway county group will be held at the Methodist Episcopal church Wednesday at 8:30 p. m.

Cutter Speeding Through South Sea On Errand of Mercy; Man's Life At Stake

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8 — (UP) — The coast guard cutter Taney plowed through heavy seas in mid-Pacific toward Honolulu today on the second leg of a 2,640-mile race with death.

The cutter removed Carl Kawalewai, whose appendix was ruptured while he waited for medical aid, from tiny Jarvis island in the South Seas. It sped toward Honolulu where Kawalewai can be given hospital attention.

Physicians, rushed by the cutter from Honolulu, operated on Kawalewai aboard ship last night. They reported by radio that his condition was favorable.

His chances, however, depend on his early arrival at Honolulu. Unless delayed by storms, the Taney probably will arrive in Honolulu Monday.

Kawalewai was one of four men stationed on the small, coral reef to make weather observations and establish the United States' claim to the island as against that of Great Britain. When he became ill Monday, his companions radioed an immediate appeal for help.

They asked the navy to send a seaplane to the island, 1,320 miles Southeast of Honolulu. The request was rejected as too hazardous since there are no refueling facilities on the island and no harbor where a large plane might land safely.

The coast guard dispatched the Taney on the 2,640-mile errand of mercy, although Kawalewai's chances to live until the boat reached the island were believed slim.

The cutter steamed out of Honolulu Monday.

The ship's officers kept in almost constant touch with the island by radio, receiving hourly reports on Kawalewai's condition. Wednesday they learned his appendix had burst.

The physicians virtually lost hope. They said peritonitis almost certainly would set in within 24 hours. That meant almost certain death.

At 6 a. m. (2 p. m. Circleville time) yesterday the Taney arrived off the island. Kawalewai was removed to the ship on a stretcher. A few hours later physicians performed the operation in an improvised operating room aboard the Taney, and the race toward Honolulu began.

73,000 GATHER FOR BIG GAME WITH TROJANS

Roscoe Karns And Miss America Add To Festivities

COLUMBUS, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Football bedlam descended on Ohio's capital city today as 73,000 persons jammed into Ohio stadium to witness the day's No. 1 intercollegiate football game—Southern California versus Ohio State.

Amid a galaxy of colorful "side-show" attractions including personal appearance of Miss America of 1938 and Movie Actor Roscoe Karns and fancy formations by the Ohio State band, one question predominated:

Would Ambrose Schindler, great Trojan back who almost single-handedly defeated Ohio State last year, get into the game?

Schindler, sidelined for the Trojans first two contests this fall, ran through practice with the Men of Troy in the stadium Friday afternoon and declared he was fit for battle.

Andy in Doubt

But Coach Howard Jones, grim-visaged "Trojan" coach, said he doubted "very much" if Ambrose Schindler who performs both at quarterback and fullback would inject his 182 pounds into the fray.

Progress of the game in which the Bucks sought revenge for the 13 to 12 defeat at Los Angeles last year, may influence Jones' decision on his star. If the experienced Trojan forward line enables the visitors to pile up a winning margin, Schindler probably will be withheld and saved for another year of competition in 1939.

Coach Francis Schmidt of Ohio State relied on five sophomores in his starting lineup, topped by Quarterback Jim Sexton and Halfback Don Scott whose passing act last week enabled the Bucks to even the score with Indiana, only other eleven to triumph over Ohio State in 1937.

While Southern California will have an advantage in experience and reserve power, the Bucks will have a slight weight advantage. Both teams tip the scales around a 200-pound average. Ohio State's average was 203 pounds to 198 for the invaders. In the line, it was 210 for Ohio State to 206 for the Trojans.

"The best band show of the year" was promised by the 120-piece Buck band and another attraction was the scheduled appearance of Miss Marilyn Mesek of Marion, O., "Miss America."

The skies were clear with almost perfect football weather prevailing.

Several Ohio Contests Grasp Fans' Interest

COLUMBUS, Oct. 8.—(UP)—The eyes of Ohio college football followers turned today to four gridiron contests, two of which should go a long towards clearing up the champion pictures in the Ohio and Buckeye conferences.

Denison's Big Red, defending 1937 titleholder in the Ohio league, locks in battle with Wooster's Scots, only eleven to down Denison last year. Both clubs rode roughshod over weaker opposition in their opening games but today's contest was forecast as to be a close affair that may be decided by the "breaks."

In the Buckeye conference, Miami's "dark horse" aggregation undertook the formidable job of finding out if Marshall's 1938 machine was as good as it appeared in crushing Carson-Newman college and Ohio Wesleyan by combined scores of 106 points. Although ruling a heavy favorite, the Herd will not have such an easy time with the visiting Redskins.

Carroll Strong

John Carroll, doormat in Cleveland collegiate competition for the last five years, assumed a more foreboding role this year after trouncing Baldwin-Wallace, 25 to 6, last night. The outcome was not so surprising as the size of the score. Carl Estenik, sophomore halfback, pointed the way for a touchdown in the opening period. B-W evened the score in the second period on a 61-yard march climaxed by George Morris' 7-yard touchdown run. A sensational 40-yard pass by Eddie Arsenault to Ed Willard and an 80-yard touchdown run by Arsenault put the Redskins out in front. Joe Hoctor tallied the final marker in the last quarter.

Another "New Deal" gridiron eleven, Kent State, chalked up its second Ohio League victory by routing Findlay, 18 to 7. Woods and Sullivan talked for the Flashes in the first half.

Marietta's Pioneers, pushed around in their opening games by Rutgers and Washington & Jefferson, served warnings on their Ohio conference rivals when they trounced Otterbein, 28 to 0. Tate raced over with three touchdowns as the Pioneers scored once in each quarter.

W. & J. conquered Muskingum's fighting squad, 21 to 7, at New Concord for its second consecutive victory over an Ohio outfit. The Muskies, lacking reserve strength, were outclassed.

In one of today's two important non-conference clashes Ohio U. engages Western Reserve in a clash that may attract 20,000 fans at Cleveland. Chief interest is focused on the two star rival quarterbacks—Johnny Montgomery, Ohio's sparkplug, and Al Litwak, Red Cat strategist.

Fliers in Test

The other big non-conference battle tests the Dayton Flyers, potential strong challenger to Marshall's Buckeye conference claims. The Flyers meet Cincinnati, who dropped out of the conference last winter, in a night game at Cincinnati. It will be a contest between two Notre Dame-system elevens, Harry Baujan of Dayton and Joe Meyers of the Bearcats were brother proteges of the late Knute Rockne.

The following persons enjoyed a picnic dinner on Sunday at the Roadside park and helped Joan Ridgeway celebrate her birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Levi Bauhan, Mr. and Mrs. Alf Brooks, Charles Smith and family, Nellie, Hazel and Sara Ridgeway and Mr. and Mrs. Ed and Elden Ridgeway.

Terry's Plan to Start For Giants Mere Rumor

By HENRY McLEMORE

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Don't you dare tell a soul, but—that talk about Bill Terry returning to first base for the Giants next year is so absurd that only a Terry could have started it in circulation. . . . The truth is, the Giants are in such desperate need of a first baseman that other clubs are taking advantage of the situation and raising the price on their sackers. . . . and Terry figures that if he spreads the rumor that he is going to do the job for the Giants the other clubs will lower their demands. . . .

The wise boys gathered here for the World Series slaughter insist that Billy Herman, Cubs second-sacker, will be player-manager of the Cardinals next year. . . . speaking of Herman, have you ever seen a player go down hill as quickly as William? Three years ago he was one of baseball's greats. . . . today—Well, he's just another man in flannel pants. . . .

Fletcher's Song Hurts

The Cubs don't care much for the song that Art Fletcher, Yankee coach, chants through each World Series game. . . . it goes something like this: "Come on up and take your cut, that's more than Grimm got." . . . this is to remind the Cubs that they set a new high in stinginess when they failed to vote Charley Grimm a share of the series money. . . . Fletcher's song doesn't have much rhythm, but it has a lot of truth.

Chet Smith, sports editor of the Pittsburgh Press, brought tears to the eyes of the baseball writers when he presented them with buttons entitling them to free drinks and food at the series games between the Yanks and the Pirates. . . . the Pittsburgh club had the buttons all made up and then came the collapse. . . . the last-minute failure of the Pirates didn't cost Pie Traynor his job. . . . he was signed for next year the same day that the Cubs won their third straight game from the Pirates and took the National league club. . . . if you don't think Paul Waner is a great hitter, please let me tell you that he hit .295 this year despite the fact that not once during the season did he make a safe hit off a curve ball. . . .

What American league player slid into third base during the last season and suffered a bad cut when the slide broke a pint of whiskey in his hip pocket? . . . I give you two guesses. . . .

Stanford After Jock

Football Note: Stanford is hot after Jock Sutherland of Pitt, and has been for three years. . . . Judge Landis, one of the most lovable characters since Scrooge, Shylock, and Iago, further endeared himself to one and all by refusing to allow Rogers Hornsby to sit in the press box at the series. . . . Judge, take a bow! . . . To show you how tough the Yankees are, they only employ Johnny Murphy as a relief pitcher. . . . try and name me any National league club with the possible exception of Cincinnati or Boston, where Murphy wouldn't be 1-2-3 on the pitching staff. . . . Four members of the Cub pitching staff visited the Empire state building tower yesterday. . . . Maybe they were acclimating themselves to high altitudes in case they blow up against the Yankees.

Ray Schalk will be the next manager of the Browns. . . . Bill Dickey thinks Buck Newsome of the Browns is faster than Feller.

The Yanks will win by a score of 7 to 3 today.

GRIDDERS WHO STARTED NIGHT BALL IN GAME

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 8.—(UP)—The same college teams which played the first night football game renewed their 34-year old rivalry last night and the result was a 0 to 0 tie.

It was in Springfield in 1904 that the Tahquah, Okla., Teachers and the Springfield Teachers met in an "after-dark" game which was played under gas lamps. Most of the townspeople attended out of curiosity and although recorded facts are vague about the outcome, the story on the Springfield campus is that the home team won.

W. E. Vaughn, now a professor at Pennsylvania state college, promoted the game. He predicted that night sport contests would have a great future because they gave working people a chance to attend.

BOXING IN SCANDAL

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—(UP)—The California Athletic commission today began an investigation of boxing and matchmaking "in the interest of clean sport." The investigation followed a charge by "Big Boy" Bray, Phoenix, Ariz., heavyweight, that he had been offered $1,000 to take a "div" in a match with Chuck Crowell of Artesia, Calif., on Sept. 27. Bray alleged Suey Welch, promoter at Olympic auditorium, was connected with the offer.

ONE will be enough to hit it, Mr. Stan Hack. The Cubs' slugging third baseman picks out a bat to pester the Yanks with in world series in Chicago.

MUSTANGS FAIL AS MARQUETTE SHOWS POWER

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—(UP)—Southern Methodist, which went to the Rose Bowl only three years ago, was out of the running for national football honors today after one of the biggest upsets of the early season.

A courageous Marquette eleven, which hadn't been conceded a chance, dished up the knockout drop at Soldier field last night and vanquished the Mustangs 7-0 in a charity game witnessed by 25,000.

Marquette won by sheer gameness and opportunism. They not only outscored their Texas foes, but played them into the turf for three of the four periods. They missed up on two scoring opportunities in the second period, but finally cashed in on the third—a blocked kick.

Don Vosberg, left end, who was a thorn in the side of the Mustangs, set up the score by blocking Ray Mallouf's punt on S.M.U.'s 35-yard line. Mill Burke, on the other Marquette flank, picked up the ball and raced to the 16-yard line. Five plays later, Norman Woods whipped a short pass to Harry Leysenaar who stepped across the goal line. Dan Koster added the extra point.

Marquette, which was walloped 27-0 by Wisconsin last week, had entered the game a decided underdog. S.M.U. had won both its previous starts and had been rated as one of the standouts in the Southwest conference title chase. They were beaten by a fast-charging line that knifed in and broke up play after play. Their serious bid came in the first period when they reached Marquette's nine-

KASEYS IN TIE WITH COUSINS FROM N. JERSEY

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 8.—(UP)—The "Little World Series" and the New York Yankee farm club championship will be decided tonight when the Kansas City Blues and the Newark Bears meet in Ruppert stadium.

The Blues squared the series at three games each when they defeated the Bears 4-2 last night. Marvin Breuer, "clutch" pitcher of Kansas City, held Newark batsmen to nine scattered hits, while the Blues got to three Bear hurlers for 10.

Kansas City clinched the game in the fourth inning when three runs crossed the plate. Ralph Boyle got a walk, then Walt Judnich scored him with a double. Joe Gallagher's single and a walk to Jack Saltgraver filled the bases. Johnny Riddle then hit a Texas leaguer that brought in Judnich and Gallagher.

Kemp Wicker, who scored three of the Blues' three playoff victories over St. Paul, will take the mound tonight against Tommy Haley, the Bears' leading pitter.

Spiritual Worship

On Mount Sinai God gave the command against idolatry, "Thou shalt not make unto thee a graven image . . . Thou shalt not bow down thyself unto them, nor serve them."

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Exodus 20:4-6; 32:1-8; John 4:19-24.

While Moses was upon the mount the people fell into great sin, worshipping a calf they had made of their golden jewelry. As Moses saw this he threw down the tables of stone in his anger.

God told Moses of the people's sin, saying, "Thy people have corrupted themselves. They have made them a molten calf, and have worshipped it, and said, 'These are thy gods, O Israel.'"

To a Samaritan woman at a well Jesus defined God and how to worship him, saying, "God is a Spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit." (GOLDEN TEXT—John 4:24)

WHAT WILL RUSSIA DO?

RUSSIA, having been left out in the cold by her supposed allies, Britain and France, while they struggle up to Germany and Italy, naturally resents it. The Moscow government organ, Izvestia, says:

"Official circles in Britain and France are trying to mask the real nature of the Munich deal with noisy rejoicing on account of their 'peaceful success.' There remains the obvious, prosaic fact that capitulation of the so-called democratic countries before an aggressor seemed to postpone war, but in fact makes it nearer and in conditions immeasurably worse for both Britain and France."

That is the way it looks to many Americans.

What of Russia herself? She must feel very lonesome, and not very safe, alongside of that strange, new merger of powerful democracies and dictatorships in western Europe. She is a great power, potentially if not actually, but even the greatest nation cannot stand alone against the world.

Russia, it must be remembered, sprawls across the two continents, Europe and Asia. On the eastern end she faces another potential foe, Japan, poor but energetic, and with boundless ambition. Japan is a member of the Fascist group. That fact must make Stalin and his people feel still more lonely.

Well, "what would a horse do?" While the powers are lining up in strange ways, and democrats linking arms with autocrats, why shouldn't Communists do likewise?

In spite of apparent hostility, it wouldn't be surprising now if Russia made a treaty of alliance and co-operation with Japan, divided China between them and laughed at Europe.

CARELESS WALKING

IT is startling to see headlines about a pedestrian hit by an auto and then arrested for causing an accident, but newspaper readers might as well get used to such stories. The custom is spreading. The widespread effort to make streets and highways as safe as possible requires checking every sort of traffic peril, including the inconsiderate, careless or intoxicated pedestrian.

In a recent case the man was in the hospital when arrested. He had not been critically injured, suffering only minor cuts and bruises. He had walked out into traffic, trying to dodge through a stream of cars which had the right of way. He got past the first car but was struck by the second. Through a combination of good luck and the watchfulness of the

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN,

CHAMBERLAIN'S POLICY

WASHINGTON — In Arthur Neville Chamberlain, Prime Minister of Great Britain, there are strangely intertwined the characteristics of feminine sentimentality and masculine arch-conversation. This is the key to the policy he has followed during these hectic days when the world teetered on the brink of war.

When, with tears in his eyes, he stood on the floor of Parliament describing the horror which faced the women and children of the world if negotiations with Hitler failed, his mind must have gone back to the days of his own tragic youth.

Once before, speaking at Leeds as Minister of Health, Chamberlain had said: "One must remember what happens to the family when the mother is taken away, and there are young children left who never have the care and influence which a mother alone can exercise over them." Then he added in a lower voice, "My own mother died in childbirth."

The death of his mother left a profound mark upon Neville Chamberlain. He was 6 years old at the time, one of six children ranging from 16 to 2. A seventh child died a few hours after Chamberlain's mother and they were buried in the same coffin.

Neville was the oldest son of the second Mrs. Chamberlain, and his father, the famous Joseph Chamberlain of Queen Victoria's day, took still a third wife, this time an American girl, Miss Mary Endicott daughter of the Secretary of War in President Cleveland's Cabinet.

The engagement had to be kept secret for some months, as Cleveland was up for re-election and word that a daughter of one of his Cabinet was to marry the arch-enemy of Irish Home Rule was sure to have lost him the Irish-American vote.

During the engagement, Neville's father wrote a letter to his fiancée which gives an insight into the Chamberlain family life. "After dinner," he said, "I got down one of the farces I wrote a long time ago and read it to the family, who proved a most indulgent audience. Then Neville played to us a Lied of Mendelssohn's and a part of a Sonata by Beethoven."

CHAMBERLAIN'S FATHER

Old Joe Chamberlain was the first middle class Englishman to dominate Britain's ruling class. Descended from a family of brewers and ironmongers, he dictated Empire policy for more than a decade and when he died he bequeathed to British politics two reactionary sons.

Old Joe himself always was considered a radical. He proposed that England adopt a constitution similar to that of the United States and advocated a close understanding with this country.

motorists, the man was not worse hurt and no collision of cars occurred. Witnesses of the accident, including a policeman, agreed that the man on foot was wholly to blame.

The incident should be taken to heart as a lesson and warning by pedestrians generally.

Blood Tests Score High in Efficiency

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

BLOOD TESTS are made for various conditions. The blood is a highly complex sort of fluid, performs many functions and contains many kinds of bodies. Tests for these substances have attained a very high degree of efficiency, and diagnosis can be made with great certainty.

People speak with great certainty of the fact that their blood is acid and apparently are entirely unaware of the fact that the biochemist can tell exactly to a fraction how acid it is and what acids are present which causes the condition. The acidulous one would find in most instances that the blood was not acid at all. The blood is as nearly neutral as it is possible to be in this world, and it preserves its neutrality by many devious devices. If it should become very acid or very alkaline, a very serious condition follows.

For Immune Bodies

Other tests of the blood are for immune bodies, as for the immune bodies of typhoid fever by the Widal test, and the Wassermann test, of which so much has been made lately. These tests are very ingenious. The Widal test, for instance, depends on the fact that after typhoid bacilli have lived in the body for a while, the blood develops what are known as agglutinins. The typhoid bacillus is motile and, under the microscope in a drop of water, darts all around with great rapidity. The agglutinins slow them down and clump them together. The microscopist can add a drop of a suspected typhoid patient's blood to a water drop full of typhoid bacilli and draw conclusions from whether they continue to dance around or stop and huddle together.

The commonest test for the blood, however, is for the formed elements—the red and white blood cells—to determine their number and appearance. The number of cells of either kind is remarkably constant in health among different people. We say a man looks plethoric, but the number of his red cells is probably the same as his emaciated neighbor. The German physician who first counted red cells said that he himself had five million per cubic millimeter in spite of the fact that "I am pale and hungry looking."

The apparatus for counting blood cells is a masterpiece of delicate work. The cells are dropped in a chamber ruled off in fine lines that can be seen only under the microscope. And the distance between the bottom of the chamber and the "ceiling" (which is formed by a glass slide) is also exact. So that if the observer counts all the cells in a certain square he has an exact unit and can estimate the number of cells circulating all over the body.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS
N. F.: "Some of my friends and I have been having some arguments lately about whether you need more salt in summer than in winter. Is it true that too much salt causes hardening of the arteries and Bright's disease?"
Answer: The cause of heat stroke is probably loss of salt through perspiration, and the prevention of the peculiar muscle spasms of men who work in very overheated places is to administer salt and water. So it would appear logical to eat more salt in summer. In my opinion the taking of salt has nothing to do with hardening of the arteries or Bright's disease.

BET ON THE LONG SHOT

A RUBBER BRIDGE declarer is obliged sometimes to be like a race track plunger who stakes his all on a long shot, as his only chance to come out ahead on the day. Dropping a singleton king or queen can be right in that class, if the trumps are badly divided against him.

The bidding on this deal began by North calling 1-Heart, South 1-Spade, North 2-Heart, South 2-Spades, North 2-No Trump, South 3-Spades and North 4-Spades.

When the heart J was led by West it was apparent to the declarer that he would possibly lose two diamonds and therefore would have to limit his trump losers to one to make his game.

Missing the K, 10, 9 and 8 of spades, South realized, after winning the first trick with the heart A, that if he finessed the J or Q of trumps and the trick lost to the K that one of the other outstanding trumps would be bound to win and his chances for game would fade.

He therefore decided to lay down the spade A and the drop of the singleton K assured him that East could claim only one trump trick. Next came the spade 2 to the J, followed by the two high hearts, East ruffing the latter. On this trick South discarded a diamond. East returned a diamond to West, who cashed the A and Q. Declarer lost exactly three tricks.

STARS SAY—

ACCORDING to the astral operations for this day, there may be need of much discretion in the management of the affairs, as a great deal depends upon the sagacity with which several difficult situations or perplexing events are turned to the side of profit and security. The principal danger may come through strange influence or strange persons.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year which will call for all their fortitude, persistency and good management of rather pressing, disappointing or sorrowful events. There is peril to finances through speculation or bad investments, through the machinations of a stranger or some unusual experience or venture. Patience, vigilance and sound judgment are urged in all directions.

A child born on this day may be impressionable, imaginative, idealistic and progressive. It may be given to deep deflection of its peculiar or rare emotional and mental propensities.

The book "Uncle Tom's Cabin", by Harriet Beecher Stowe, is still a best seller. Over 50,000,000 copies have been sold, according to estimate, and the book has been translated into 25 languages.

CHAPTER 37

BOB AND Marjorie had been gone for an hour when Ronald telephoned. The spring tone of the air had yielded to rain and great drops were falling rhythmically on the dormer windows. Judy was certain that it would be Ronald's voice that would say "Judy?" when she picked up the phone.

"I wanted to wait for you," he said, "but I had an engagement uptown. Some day maybe I can show you how grateful I was for your trust and hospitality tonight."

"You've shown me long before this how important faith is," Judy answered. "Was everything all right? Did you—visitor find his way up the mountainside to the fourth floor?"

Ronald hesitated. "He didn't come."

"Oh, I'm sorry."

"It doesn't matter. Maybe it's better."

Judy spoke quickly. "Ronald, isn't there any way that I can help? I'm not afraid, you know."

"Just keep on believing in me, won't you, Judy? That counts most." His voice was troubled.

"Ronald, your friends are with you en masse. You know that!" She emphasized her words to force them into his consciousness.

"If you are, I won't miss those who are dropping out," he answered.

He did not ask her to meet him for lunch. There was no suggestion of dinner. Alone in the quiet room, with the dead telephone in her hand, Judy felt a heart-sick pang because she had refused his invitation that day he was so tired. But there had been Abbey—Where was she now? How was she taking this?

Ronald's flowers came in the morning. There was a cool green box, and in the green misty paper within there were old-fashioned flowers—marigolds, jonquils, pinks, pansies, violets and yellow roses. There were enough for a low vase and two bowls.

Sorting them, before she drank her fruit juice and coffee, Judy remembered that Bob's flowers had stopped. She stood still, hands sufficed with blossoms, trying to remember when last that small red box had made its morning appearance. Until now she had not missed it.

You could let one man glide out of your life and never know his ship was speeding down the harbor until someone told you about it. Yet, if another man turned a corner—oh, any corner—and walked a block out of your path, you knew it and your heart trailed him feverishly.

What was love? Was it only chemistry, a divine chemistry, that made one person infinitely dear?

The clock was striking 8:30 and she was due at 9, so she hurried. She would call Ronald later and thank him for the flowers.

But it was late afternoon when she did. Ronald was not in. He would call her, the secretary said. She asked Judy to wait a moment, and presently the warm tones of Mr. Heaton came flowing across the wire.

"Judy, your father is anxious to have an interview with you," he explained. "Could you make it at my office some time tomorrow?"

"Is it important?" Judy asked. "Couldn't he write me?"

"Judy, you mustn't be too hard on him. He's had a great worry on his shoulders. He's done a monumental feat in making such a swift comeback. You have a father of whom to be proud."

A father who gave my governesses checks to buy me dolls that could walk and dolls that could talk; a father who sent me to the best schools and camps but never once took me hiking because he liked being with me; no, that wasn't quite fair. Before Sarita had come along, when she was only six and seven, he had taken her fishing and told her stories.

After that he had changed. Oh, a woman could do a great deal to a man, especially a man who was not strong enough to follow the way he wanted when his eyes were wide and his path clear!

She might have weakened but Mr. Heaton was saying: "People are talking, Judy. They wonder why you have broken your relations with your parents. Your father is deeply hurt. Sarita is being censured, and that pains your father greatly."

Not, am I lonely? Am I hurt? Sarita is being censured. The moment was gone. Mr. Heaton had lost his cause with his own last argument. Judy smiled a little. Not a happy smile. Not a young smile. An old tragic, cynical lifting of the lips. Mr. Heaton was a lawyer. He should have known better than to overplay his case.

"Won't you tell my father that I'm well and happy and fairly successful? I appreciate his interest—but I mustn't trouble him."

She hung up.

Judy had been able to obtain a job for Coralee Myers in the fitting department. Coralee, deeply grateful, came by as Judy sat at the desk.

"Miss Rogers, are you ill?" she asked quickly.

"No, I'm fine. I was just thinking how nice it must be to have a family." She smiled wanly.

Coralee hesitated. "You've always said you wanted to meet nine. Would you come out some night for dinner?"

"I'd love to. How soon?"

"Tomorrow night?"

"I'll be waiting for it to be tomorrow."

Coralee hesitated. "Our house is poor, you know. My father has a queer kind of job. He can do it at home while his leg heals. He's a penman. I mean he does fancy writing for diplomas and things for some company." She was apologetic and proud both.

"That's splendid," Judy said gently. Men who couldn't make an intelligible scrawl, but who had gone through a process of training to achieve that scrawl, wrote their names on limitless checks. Coralee's father could cross his t's and round his o's and had no papers of his own on which to put the perfect copy.

In a burst of sympathy for Coralee Judy went shopping when she left the studio. She knew how many small children there were in that New Jersey household.

She bought a yellow sweater, two strands of beads, some dolls and an electric train and a box of candy. She asked to have the packages delivered to the studio the next day as she could go directly home from work with Coralee. But on the subway she remembered that the poor was proud.

The Myers family was offering its hospitality, graciously and happily. If she came with her arms filled with largesse which could not be repaid with a pork chop and a baked potato, they would be hurt.

There was no way to explain to them that they were giving her more than she brought them. That they let her share a home, that they taught her that families did live together. She would take the candy to them, and cancel the rest of the order.

Some friends had invited Judy to join them at the theater that evening and she was nearly ready when her doorbell rang.

Thinking that the people were early, she went to the button which released the door. The bell rang again. Apparently the latch had not released. She pressed hard, and went into the hall to look down but behind her came the insistent ringing.

Oh, of course! She was stupid. They were waiting for her to talk through the speaking tube, something she seldom did. She said: "Yes?"

A strange masculine voice answered: "Is Ronald Birrell there?"

Before she could answer, the voice came more quickly: "Is this Abbey Boland?"

A member of the United States senate or house of representatives may resign by transmitting a letter of resignation either directly to the executive of his state or to the presiding officer of the house of congress of which he is a member. In the house the usual practice is to transmit the letter of resignation directly to the governor, at the same time notifying the speaker of the house of the action. When a member resigns directly to the senate or to the house of representatives, the body to which the resigning member belongs orders its presiding officer to inform the governor of the state of the resignation.

Watt Home Scene Of Garden Club Meeting

Reservations to Kingston Meet Being Sought

Mr. and Mrs. Donald H. Watt extended the hospitality of their home Friday evening, to members of the Pickaway County Garden club for their October meeting. Mrs. Clark Hunsicker, newly elected president of the club, presided at the business session.

The roll call and minutes of the previous session were read by Mrs. G. G. Campbell, secretary, followed by the report of Mrs. Watt, club treasurer.

Mrs. Hunsicker read an invitation which had been extended the club to attend the regional meeting to be held in Kingston, Oct. 15. Reservations should be made not later than Oct. 10. The club has been invited also to participate in a Hocking county tour of state parks, which will be held, Oct. 14.

Mrs. Leslie Pontius, chairman of the exchange committee, announced that there would be an exchange of bulbs at the home of Miss Florence Duntun, the date to be announced later.

The club voted to donate $5 to the city health nurse to be applied to the fund for purchasing scales for the various city schools.

Mrs. Blair, delegate to the state convention held recently in Zanesville, reported that there are 250 garden clubs in Ohio with a membership of 8,000 and stated that the number of persons interested in gardens was increasing yearly.

She gave an interesting account of an address given by Lee Schmitz of Washington D. C. on outdoor life. He told of the primitive gardeners frequently having only a geranium and how they cherished and prized it. He spoke of insects and birds and told of their effect on vegetation, wild and otherwise. The first step in wildlife conservation was taken by the Indians, the government giving its first support along conservation lines under Theodore Roosevelt.

Mrs. Blair next gave a detailed and colorful description of the address by Mrs. Ico Greagar, a Bohemian, who has devoted her life to the study of flower arrangements, having spent many years in Japan.

Mrs. Richard Jones, an alternate who also attended the convention, gave a resume of activities and reported that one of the most outstanding floral displays at the convention was that of tuberous rooted begonias grown by Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Noggle of W. Union street.

Mrs. Orion King, chairman of the program committee, assisted by Mrs. Blair, obtained for the evening's program Mrs. Howard Hamlin of Upper Arlington, who judged the flower display at the Pumpkin Show last year.

Mrs. Hamlin spoke on "Flower Arrangements and Arrangements of Berries and Foliage." She told of the early pagans offering flowers to their Gods, and trying to enhance their beauty in arranging them. The same thing occurred with the orientals, flower arrangements having taken on such importance the last few years that artists are often called on to act as judges instead of florists. She gave rules on lines, color arrangements and ideas on proper receptacles for flowers. Mrs. Hamlin made several arrangements, with berries, foliage and a miniature.

At the close of the program, the members were invited to the dining room where delectable refreshments were served. Mrs. Howard Jones presided at the tea table.

The dining room and living rooms were artistically decorated in Autumn flowers, hollyhocks and dogwood foliage. Mrs. Fred Cook displayed a gorgeous basket of various colors and kinds of dahlias.

Mrs. Watt was assisted by Mrs. George Roth, Mrs. C. E. Hunter and Miss Florence Duntun.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. G. I. Nickerson, S. Court street.

Mrs. Charles Pugsley and Mrs. John Bolender were admitted as members.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs.

Eula Dowden Is Bride Of Ray O'Neal

Friday afternoon, Oct. 7, Miss Eula M. Dowden, daughter of Mr. Mack W. Dowden, became the bride of Mr. Ray O'Neal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Colman O'Neal of Hardinsburg, Ind. The ceremony was performed at 4:30 in the afternoon at the Dowden home in Wayne township.

The fireplace, before which the vows were exchanged, was banked with large bouquets of Chinese woodflowers and lighted with tall cathedral candles.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Elizabeth Umsted of Kingston, played piano arrangements of "Because" and "O, Promise Me". As she modulated to the strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March, Miss Dowden and Mr. O'Neal stepped from the receiving line to the improvised altar. The single ring service was read by the Rev. Harry E. Boyer of Hope Lutheran church, Columbus. During the ceremony, Miss Umsted played softly, "I Love You Truly" and Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

For her wedding, the bride chose a Mainbocher adaptation of mist blue leana crepe with chianti accessories. She wore a shoulder corsage of white carnations.

Following the service, a reception was held for the guests. The bride's table was beautifully decorated with a large three tiered wedding cake, encircled with a garland of white button chrysanthemums, flanked with tall white tapers. The embroidered tablecloth used was that of the bride's maternal grandmother. Gladioli, pompons and zinnias were used in profusion in other rooms of the home.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Miss Doris O'Neal, Mr. Ned Hitchcock, Mr. and Mrs. Dana Purdum, Mrs. Clarence Dowden, Mrs. Edward Keenan, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Boyer of Columbus; Miss Umsted of Kingston. Guests from Circleville and community included Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dowden, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Dowden and children, Doris, Louise, Ruth and Leland, Mr. and Mrs. Olan V. Bostwick, Miss Beatrice Dowden, Harold Dowden, Gilbert Dowden, Jr., Mrs. John Essick, Miss Gertrude Dowden, Mrs. Flora Purdum, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fortner, Mr. and Mrs. Beryl Greenlee, Miss Jimma Dungan, Mrs. Margaret Ebert, Miss Mary Ebert, Mrs. Matilda Wegerly, and the immediate family of the bride, Mr. Mack Dowden, Miss Elizabeth Dowden, Mr. Durward Dowden and Mr. and Mrs. J. Austin Dowden.

The former Miss Dowden is a graduate of Capital university. After her graduation, she served as principal of Wayne township school for five years. Mr. O'Neal has been engaged in the livestock transportation business in central Ohio for the last six years. He is now associated with the Zanesville Provision Co., Zanesville.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU

BY BOB BURNS

I remember when I went to school we weren't allowed to use our imagination very much. Our opinion on any subject depended entirely upon the teachers' interpretation of it, but today the schools encourage free thinking. Pupils take pretty near any subject and jest tear it apart.

Not long ago, on my boy's birthday I gave him $2.00 and said, "Now, son I want you to learn the value of a dollar—don't take this money and spend it foolishly—remember 'a fool and his money are soon parted.'" My boy says, "Yes, I know that, but thanks for partin' with it, anyway!"

JOB STEVENSON LAND INVOLVED IN COURT SUIT

Suit for foreclosure of a mortgage, involving the Job Stevenson land in Wayne and Union townships, Pickaway and Ross counties, was filed Saturday in Common Pleas court against Evelyn Walker Blankenship, Chillicothe R. F. D., and others.

The action was filed by the Federal Farm Mortgage Corporation and is based on a note for $7,500 secured by a mortgage. It asks $8,402.92 with interest. The suit involves 991 acres of land, of which 146 acres are in Pickaway county.

This mortgage is the best lien, the petition explains, with the exception of one in the original amount of $32,000 held by the Federal Land Bank of Louisville.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

In their search for a colorful ballet to climax the skating numbers in her current 20th Century-Fox picture, "My Lucky Star," Sonja Henie and her dance director, Harry Losee, turned happily to one of the most beloved storybook classics of all time—Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland."

All of Carroll's fantastic creatures have come to life—and all on skates. Sonja skims across the ice in the company of Tweedledee and Tweedledum (appropriately played by Jack and Bob Heasley who are identical twins) and the Walrus and the Carpenter.

The philosophic caterpillar descends from his toadstool to join the dance, together with the King and Queen and Knave of Hearts; there are the Griffin and the Dodo, the Mock Turtle and the Dormouse, as well as the Ugly Duchess, the Cheshire Cat, the Mad Hatter, the White Rabbit, the Red and Black cat attendants.

The ballet is worked into the story of "My Lucky Star" as part of a gigantic ice carnival which Sonja stages for a big department store.

Currently at the Grand Theatre, "My Lucky Star" finds Richard Greene, last seen in "Four Men And A Prayer," sharing top honors with Sonja. The cast includes Joan Davis, Cesar Romero, Buddy Ebsen, Arthur Treacher, George Barbier, Louise Hovick, Billy Gilbert, Patricia Wilder and Phil Hurst.

AT THE CLIFTONA

An ultra-modern story of a "quadrangle" supplants the age-old tale of the triangle in a new, bright and breezy comedy.

It is "Three Loves Has Nancy," dedicated to hilarity and moving at so fast a pace that the audience will have scarcely time to draw a full breath between laughs. Opening Sunday at the Cliftona Theatre.

Janet Gaynor, Robert Montgomery and Franchot Tone offer a brilliant array of talent in the principal roles. Miss Gaynor in the best part she has had since the memorable "Seventh Heaven" and "A Star Is Born" gives a persuasive and sympathetic portrayal of a small-town girl who is given an insight into the sophistications of New York by Montgomery and Tone, her rivals in love. Montgomery has a made-to-order assignment as the flippant novelist and Tone handles the part of the publisher with polish and suavity.

AT THE CIRCLE

Coming to the Circle theatre Sunday for two days is "Test Pilot," the gripping story of the men who test new and untried airplanes. Clark Gable, Spencer Tracy and Myrna Loy are starred. TRI-COUNTY SCHOOL DISTRICT PLANS BLASTED BY HOCKING BOARDS

STATE PROGRAM TO ALTER AREA GIVEN SETBACK

Laurelville - Perry Division Wishes To Remain In Present System

Hocking county boards of education, meeting Friday night in Logan, turned thumbs down on the proposed creation of a tri-county school district from parts of Pickaway, Ross and Hocking counties.

They opposed any redistricting of the county system. Dr. C. T. Grattidge, Laurelville, president of the Laurelville-Perry board of education, the district involved in the proposed tri-county merger, announced that territory wishes to stay in the Hocking county system.

School officials opposed also a suggestion considered in recent weeks for the establishment of a county-wide school unit in Hocking county. The districts preferred to continue as separate units.

Creation of the proposed three-county district included the erection of a new school at Routes 56 and 180. Petitions were circulated in the districts of Ross and Hocking counties but no action has been taken on them by the county boards of education. Salter Creek township, Pickaway county, would have been a part of the district.

About 40 school officials attended the meeting in Logan. It was a public hearing, called for a discussion of school reorganization.

U. A. W. CONFERS ABOUT STRIKE AT PLYMOUTH

DETROIT, Oct. 8—(UP)—The United Automobile workers union held a hurried conference today on its 32-hour week plan, which caused a walkout from the Chrysler corporation's Plymouth plant that withdrew 16,000 men from work yesterday.

Nine international officials of the union came here by airplane from Washington, where the executive board formally approved the 32-hour week last Wednesday, to meet with local U. A. W. leaders who had followed up on the board's proposal with quick and direct action.

International officials made no comment immediately on whether their headquarters had approved the walkout of 6,800 Plymouth workers, whose sole demand was a 32-hour week and who denied that they were on strike but said they were quitting because they had worked 32 hours this week.

It was reported that the men planned to return to work Monday regardless of today's conference, but that they probably would quit again after working 32 hours next week.

The Plymouth shutdown caused the Briggs Manufacturing company to close, lacking an outlet for its bodies, and threw 9,000 additional men out of work.

RALLY DAY PLANNED Rally Day will be observed in Calvary Evangelical church, Sunday, at the various services. Sunday school will be at 9 a. m. with a special program. The morning church service will be at 10 o'clock. Young folk of the church will meet at 6:45 p. m. with preaching at 7:30 p. m.

GABBY JUGGLES TEAM TO SEEK SERIES VICTORY

Demaree On Bench As Cubs Face Yankees In Third Tilt

(Continued from Page One) snizzles for a week and Manager Joe McCarthy said he would not start the man who pitched a no-hit game this season unless he was in tip-top shape.

Should Pearson be unable to work, McCarthy probably will take a chance with another cripple—Spud Chandler, alumnus of the Newark Bears. He would be quite a guy in the baseball world if the Yankees didn't have so many other good pitchers to throw in ahead of him. He has been having arm trouble for three weeks.

Gabby Hopeful Hartnett's chances are thin, but his hopes are as wide as his grin. He got a haircut yesterday (one we suggested he might as well have waited for the trimming he's going to get this afternoon) and as he sat in the barber chair, a fat cigar in his teeth, he pointed out the irrefutable fact that it takes four games to win a World Series.

"We'll take 'em, we'll take 'em," Gabby chanted as though he were trying to hypnotize himself. "They were lucky in Chicago."

Win or lose, Gabby will put on a show for the New York fans today. He really has no business being in the ball game, for two fingers on his throwing hand are badly chewed up by foul tips. There were times during those first two games in Chicago when eight of the Cubs on the field seemed to be a listless, heartless crew. But there never was a time when Gabby, the man in the iron mask, wasn't shaking his fist at the Yankees in defiance—a fist that was white with adhesive tape—and calling on the Cubs for a rally.

Should Bryant lose today, Hartnett would be faced with a decision that should add a garden patch of gray to his hair. He would have to decide whether to send Big Bill Lee, who got knocked around in the first game, back in there or blow some kind of a weird whistle and summon Grandpappy Charley Root, 39, oldest player in the big leagues, from out his glorious past. Technically, Lee is Hartnett's best pitcher and he didn't disgrace himself in Chicago Wednesday. He deserves another shot.

Ruffing to Be Better No matter what happens today Rufus the Red Ruffing is rested and ready to go tomorrow for New York. He didn't pitch the best game of his career in the opener, but he was good enough to throttle the Cubs when they tried to get dangerous and the law of averages says he will be better on his next start.

Just to show that figures don't mean much unless you put them inside a bathing suit, the composite box score for the first two games indicates that the best team lost. The Cubs out-hit and out-fielded the Yankees. Hartnett's men slammed McCarthy's pitchers for the respectable batting average of .303. The Yankees were able to hit only .279. The Yankees have committed three errors for a fielding average of .963; the Cubs have made only one error for an average of .987. Maybe Commis-

CATHOLIC, NAZI ENTHUSIASTS IN AUSTRIAN RIOT

VIENNA, Oct. 8—(UP)—An angry demonstration in which Roman Catholic youths and Nazi partisans fought in historic St. Stefan's place last night was ended by police when it threatened to assume the proportions of a riot.

Several persons were injured and several were arrested in free for all fights which marked a climax to growing differences between the Catholic church and the Nazi government.

Cardinal Innitzer, archbishop of Vienna and head of the Catholic hierarchy in Austria, was delivering in old St. Stefan's cathedral the strongest sermon he had ever made against government interference with the church.

Outside, in the great square, were massed thousands of Catholics who could not get into the cathedral, which was jammed to the doors.

Nazi partisans began heckling persons in the crowd. The service ended with the cardinal retired to his home just as fights began to break out in the square.

The screams of women began to punctuate the din of shouts and counter shouts and the songs from groups in the crowd.

Priests came from the cathedral, centering their efforts, restored order among groups of Catholic youths who were organizing to wreck cafe terraces in the square.

The Nazi representation increased steadily, and more fights broke out.

Police arrived on the run as the fighting threatened to become serious.

FRENCH DRAFT PLAN FOR GREAT OCEAN STEAMER

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—(UP)—The French line plans to build a gigantic new luxury liner, larger than the Normandie and designed to cross the Atlantic in less than four days, it was announced today by Henri Morin De Linclays, general representative of the line.

The plans call for an expenditure of $60,000,000. The ship will take three years to build. De Linclays said the new ship would have a speed of between 34 and 36 knots, he said. It would have accommodations for 500 to 600 third class, 600 tourist class and 700 to 750 cabin class passengers. Its motors would generate 250,000 horsepower.

By contrast, the Normandie cost $56,000,000; has 160,000 horsepower, an accommodations for 300 third class, 400 tourist and 650 cabin class passengers.

AUTO, TAXI COLLIDE

Auto driven by William Holmes, E. Mill street, and a taxi operated by Herman Sirbaugh, 519 E. Main street, were involved in a minor traffic accident Saturday about 10 a. m. at Washington and Franklin streets. Damage to the cars was slight.

Sloner Landis should do something about this business of a team out-hitting and outfielding the Yankees and still losing two ball games. Something like standing between second and third base when the Cubs are on the field and untangling Jurgas and Hack when they get the idea—as they did in Chicago Thursday—that they are playing football and try to block each other out of the play.

LIKE the stars hanging low on a still, frosty night, "My Lucky Star" opening at the Grand Theatre Sunday, is hailed as a picture twinkling and glittering with fun and romance. Dazzling Sonja Henie is starred in the 20th Century-Fox film.

Republican party in Ohio," Mr. Sawyer said, "is not a party but one man, operated by one man and for the benefit of one man. That person is not my opponent, but Ed Schorr, who as chairman of state executive and central committees does what he wishes in Republican politics. He holds secret meetings and doesn't consult anyone about any course that the party should follow. Any person elected by Republicans of Ohio will not serve the rank and file of the people as I expect to do, but will be in the state house for the personal benefit of Ed Schorr."

Efficiency Promised

The speaker went on to pledge efficiency in every branch of the state government. He advocates an accounting system to better handle the financing of the state; intends to remove appointment of the state conservation commissioner from the governor's hands and place it in the power of the conservation council; to reorganize the highway department into a more efficient unit.

Mr. Sawyer praised President Roosevelt for his action in sending a message to European powers urging that differences over the Czechoslovakian question be settled in peaceful conferences and not in war.

All primary election conflicts were declared forgotten by the candidate. "I had a hard-fought campaign for nomination, as many of you are well aware," he said, "but all those troubles have been forgotten. The primary was over the day after the primary. There are no bruises left and I have forgiven all my enemies so far as the primary is concerned."

In his Portsmouth address, which was broadcast to a state-wide audience, Mr. Sawyer charged his opponent with attempting to destroy the effectiveness of the bipartisan civil service commission by increasing the two-man commission to three and thus "plunging the commission into the worst kinds of spoils system by giving it a two-to-one partisan bias."

He appeared in Ironton and Jackson, also, Friday.

Senator Robert Bulkley, scheduled to speak at the Circleville meeting, wired Lawrence Goeller, executive committee chairman, that he would be unable to attend because of conflicting dates.

Many Introduced

Other persons introduced during the evening by Mr. Goeller were John W. McSweeney, candidate for re-election as congressman-at-large; Francis Howard, candidate for re-election as state senator; Harold K. Claypool, candidate for re-election as congressman; Clark Hunsicker, running for re-election as representative; Wayne Brown, candidate for com-

date for auditor; John Goeller, missionary; Miller Beckett, candidate for council; Charles Miller, Democratic club chairman; Dr. E. L. Montgomery, chairman of the Young Democratic club; Judge Robert Gorman, of Cincinnati, candidate for reelection to the state supreme court, who urged consideration for the judicial ticket; Mrs. Hulse Hays, district committeewoman; Ralph Winegardner, candidate for supreme court judge, and representatives of Senator George Morris, Auditor Joe Ferguson and Attorney General Herbert Duffy. Others presented were officials of the Sawyer-for-Governor club, including Bryan Custer, Byron Eby, Joe W. Adkins, Jr., and Karl Herrmann. Mr. Goeller presented Mr. Sawyer as "a fearless leader who will carry the Democratic party to victory on Nov. 8."

Music during the evening was provided by the Franklin county Democratic glee club of 25 male voices.

ITALY REMOVES VETERANS FROM SPANISH WAR

ROME, Oct. 8—(UP)—Italy is withdrawing all its Spanish civil war troops who have served in Spain more than 18 consecutive months, was announced today.

How many men would be affected, or how many actually were in Spain with the Nationalist army, was not disclosed.

An official communique announcing the withdrawal was issued as from Salamanca, Spain. It said:

Gen. Francisco Franco is preparing for the immediate repatriation of Italian volunteers who have been in Spain more than 18 consecutive months.

"Nationalist Spain through this substantial withdrawal of volunteers is contributing in an efficient manner to the establishment of international faith, besides satisfying in this way the desires expressed by the non-intervention committee."

Some quarters reported that the withdrawal would include about 10,000 men and it was added, in those quarters, that there were probably about 30,000 Italian troops in Spain.

EMPLOYEE OF MINT FIRST IN LINE AT YANK FIELD

NEW YORK, Oct. 8—(UP)—John Green, 62-year-old Negro who claims to work in the United States mint, was first in line when the sale of bleacher seats for the third World Series game opened today.

Green, with a two-pound bell he will toll every time the Yankees get a hit, took up his vigil in front of the ticket window at 1 p. m. yesterday and he had no company until late last night.

"I ain't missed a World Series game since 1925," said Green.

This was a commitment taken for the first time by Britain. Previously the government had promised only to support France if France went to the aid of Czechoslovakia against a German attack.

When the Munich agreement was signed, and the delegates of Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy alike saw a rainbow of peace in the diplomatic skies of Europe, this pledge seemed but a polite gesture to Czechoslovakia—one that would cost nothing.

But now, it was understood the government feared that what was called a "difficult situation" might arise if Poland and Hungary threatened to use forcible means to get their demands for cession of Czechoslovak Ruthenia or part of Slovakia so that they could have the common frontier they have been talking about.

Thus, conceivably, the situation might develop in such a way that Berlin and France would have to validate their pledge to protect Czechoslovakia's frontier, or alternately, suffer the embarrassment of finding an exit.

On Thursday night Poland decided to support Hungary's claim for cession of the whole province of sub-Carpathian Ruthenia to Hungary. It was understood that Hungary, in negotiations with Czechoslovakia starting tomorrow night, was likely to claim Ruthenia on the ground that it was part of Hungary before the World War, though the inhabitants are largely Ukrainians.

Sources close to the British government asserted that there was not the slightest doubt that the real reason for the new Polish-Hungarian claims was a desire to create a common boundary between the two countries.

This would bring nearer to realization Poland's dream of a powerful neutral belt of nations, serving as a buffer between Russia and Germany—and, extending from the Baltic sea to the Adriatic sea—to make a German-Russian war almost impossible.
